Additional Information

Register for email alerts from the www.wasor.org website when a registered sex offender moves to your area.

Search for offenders currently registered in your area.

The screenshot shows the WASOR website interface. The 'Check Your Area' section has fields for Address, City, State, Zip, Email, and Confirm Email. The 'Offender Search' section has tabs for 'In your area', 'Name', 'City', and 'Non-compliant'. It includes a search radius selector, a 'How searches work' link, and fields for Address, City, State (dropdown), Zip, and Zip Plus. There is a checkbox for 'Offender Address Type' with 'Home Addresses' selected. Search and Reset buttons are at the bottom, with a note that an asterisk denotes a required field.

Tips can be submitted on this website by clicking the "Submit a tip or correction for this offender" under the offender's photo.

Washington Sex Offender Registry

For more than 30 years, Washington State has required persons (adults and juveniles) who have been convicted of any sex or kidnapping offense to register their address, place of employment, or school with law enforcement. The information is provided through a searchable website that includes the ability to register for email alerts. The Washington Sex Offender Public Registry (WASOR) is a state funded program administered by the Washington Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs (WASPC). The following is a brief summary of the Washington Sex Offender Public Registry program and resources for more information.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. What is a registered sex offender?

Sex offenders are juveniles or adults who have been convicted of a Class A, Class B, Class C felony or some gross misdemeanor sex offenses and are required to register for life, fifteen years, and ten years, respectively.

2. What do the levels mean?

Sex offender levels are determined by consideration of several factors about the offender and the nature of their offense(s). Adult and juvenile offenders are assigned risk level classification for purposes of community notification by law enforcement.

LEVEL 	RISK
I	Low risk to sexually reoffend within the community at large
II	Moderate risk to sexually reoffend within the community at large
III	High risk to sexually reoffend within the community at large

3. Do offenders have restrictions on where they can live?

It depends on whether the offender is under supervision by the Department of Corrections, Juvenile Rehabilitation, or county probation. If offenders are under supervision, they can have certain limitations or restrictions placed on them by the Department of Corrections or the sentencing court upon their release from incarceration. These may include residency restrictions, not being around children, having a curfew, or not drinking alcohol or taking drugs. If they are found to be in violation of their restrictions, they may be sent back to jail or to prison. Offenders who have completed their time under supervision can live where they choose without restrictions.

4. I know someone is a sex offender, why aren't they on the website?

Washington state publishes Level II, III and non-compliant or transient Level I offenders. If you are looking for information on a specific offender not published on the website, you can contact your local Sheriff's office. They can provide you with information on specific Level I offenders.

5. Can convicted sex offenders utilize social media such as Facebook, Twitter, Snapchat or Instagram?

It depends on whether the offender is under supervision by the Department of Corrections, Juvenile Rehabilitation, or county probation. If offenders are under supervision, they can have certain limitations or restrictions placed on them by the Department of Corrections or the sentencing court upon their release from incarceration. These may include restrictions on their ability to access social media or other internet sites, though sex offenders generally have the same 1st amendment rights as the general public.

6. What do I do if I see an offender doing something I think is suspicious?

Call your local police department or sheriff's office and report it. It is best to let law enforcement handle the situation rather than taking it into your own hands.

7. What about confronting the offender myself?

Experts believe sex offenders are less likely to re-offend if they live and work in an environment free of harassment. Any unlawful actions taken against the individual named in the notification, including vandalism of property, verbal, or written threats of harm, or physical violence against this person, his or her family, or employer, may result in your arrest and prosecution of criminal acts. This information cannot be used in any way to threaten, intimidate, or harass registered offenders.

8. These notifications disturb me and my family, we are worried.

People respond in many different ways to receiving a sex offender notification. It is normal to feel upset, angry, and worried about a sex offender living in your community. The law was created to inform the public when a Level II or Level III sex offender moves into the community and to provide the community with education and resources.

9. How can I talk to children about sex offender notification?

Talk with children in a calm way about the individual named on the notification flyer. Open communication with children is a parent's number one safety tool.
