This two-day social media, IP address and cell record exploitation course is designed to teach law enforcement personnel how to legally exploit social media, IP addresses and cell phone records in their investigations. This course will teach the student how to obtain social media, IP addresses and cell records from all the major platforms by properly writing and submitting legal process. The student will then learn what to do with data they receive and how to exploit that data to solve their cases and/or locate their fugitives. The entire course is built and taught using real life case studies. Numerous electronic surveillance techniques will be demonstrated that are applicable to criminal investigations and fugitive apprehensions. The investigative techniques taught in this class apply to Patrol Officers, Fugitive Units, Detectives, VICE, NARC, Gang Unit, Crime Analysts, etc.

TOPICS INCLUDE:

- Introduction to social media exploitation methods
- Case law on the use of social media exploitation
- Overview of IP addresses and how they can be used to locate your suspect
 - How to write the correct legal process to get the data you need
 - How to correctly submit your legal process
 - What to do with the data you receive
- Utilizing IP records from social media accounts to obtain locations and phone numbers for suspects
- Case studies from active cases to reinforce the techniques taught in the class

Students will be given a FREE list of investigative resources in the class and shown numerous free databases/resources during the class.

INSTRUCTOR: Eric Wilson is currently assigned to the Criminal Investigations Division at a large agency in the State of Texas. Eric has lead and supervised the federal prosecution of 200+ white supremacist gang members and associates. These cases have received multiple awards from the Department of Justice. He is a highly commended officer in the use of electronic surveillance to successfully arrest and prosecute violent offenders for various offenses. Eric has served on a federal fugitive task force for 12 years. He assisted with developing a curriculum for his agency to teach new investigators how to successfully lead large-scale federal conspiracy investigations and maintains current knowledge regarding the use of technology in law enforcement.
